So, what is QRA?

Using a highly developed energy testing technique based on the Omura "Bi-digital O-Ring Muscle Reflex Test", QRA (Quantum Reflex Analysis) is a university-proven, advanced form of kinesiology using medically accepted reflex points to assess the bio-energetic status of key organs and glands. QRA delivers powerful insights and techniques to deal with physical and emotional trauma, provides easy to follow protocol that significantly aids the learning process and delivers opportunities to transform how you practice.

With QRA you can...

- Identify often unknown weaknesses in the body (blocked energy pathways)
- Identify the underlying cause of health issues
- Take the guesswork out of prescribing nutrients
- Test for nutrient biocompatibility
- Verify effective dosages
- Provide precise & reproducible results

QRA is a simple, safe and profound way of allowing the body to tell us what it needs to heal!

The QRA 2012 courses have been confirmed for March. Robin Day and Hannah Moore from BioTrace, New Zealand will be here to run the QRA level I: Introduction to QRA course in Brisbane. Robin and Hannah bring exceptional professionalism and personal experience to their training with a tremendous wealth of knowledge.

Don't just take our word for it! Here is what our QRA trained practitioners are saying...

"I found the QRA course to be practice-changing! I learnt so much in those few days and continued to learn a lot thanks to the support of the teams at BioTrace and PRL via the online forum. This information is leading edge. I've had clients tell me that this was their last hope... and it's working for them!! That is a pretty privileged position to be in as a practitioner. I am very appreciative of the impact QRA has had on my practice and my own personal life and look forward to learning more."

- Liz Jury, registered naturopath

"I've found in my years of practice as a holistic medical doctor, that some patients simply don't respond to standard nutritional protocols and medical or complementary management. There has to be a missing link somewhere with these people and I've always been keen to find it. QRA provides an important missing link - the importance of restoring cellular resonance rather than simply working at a biochemical level. Furthermore there is the whole concept of interference fields, which opens up another whole avenue for treatment - including mudpacking - which can open a whole additional income stream for a practice. Then there is the emotional repolarization therapy - which is yet another vital area. QRA has helped me take a further step towards true holistic care."

- Dr. Sandeep Gupta, MBBS FRACGP FACNEM
